Welcome to my updated website - I've been working on this behind the scenes for a couple of years but never was quite ready to set it free. I finally decided to just let it fly and I'll revise it and add more photos as I go along. Right now the plan is for the front page to contain news and information on me, some gizmos and gadgets I might be playing with and other stuff. The rest of the site will mostly be a photo gallery. The more I learn about the new environment the more I will tweak it, but for now this is a start. Eventually I'll also have some menu items to allow you to send me messages, maybe vote on some stuff or whatever floats my boat. Enjoy! :o)
